

National Poetry Month

Program Dates	Location	Poet	Partners & Program
5-6 April	Boise, ID	Miles Hewitt	Boise State Writing Project, middle school workshops; Idaho Commission on the Arts & The Log Cabin Literature Center—reading with 3 poets.
17 April	New York, NY	Claire Lee	Academy of American Poets Poetry & the Creative Mind. Reading
18-20 April	Detroit, MI	Natalie Richardson	826 Michigan, Inside/Out Literary Arts and Detroit Public Library Poetry conference and reading, Feed Your Soul, designed for the general public and aimed at engaging adults who are new to poetry. School and program visits in addition to conference
26-27 April	Birmingham, AL	Luisa Banchoff	Red Mountain Writing Project: Writers of Social Justice How One Pen Changes the World-Conference. Reading & workshop with high school students
27 April*	Albuquerque, NM	Lylla Younes	Poetry conference—reading and workshop with inner-city youth

National Service Projects

Program Dates	Location	Poet	Partners & Project
20 April	Vancouver WA	Miles Hewitt	Christopher Luna, Clark County Poet Laureate; Portland Writing Project Washington State University Vancouver's At Home at School poetry workshop for youth, ages approximately 6-12 .
3,10,17,24 April	New York, NY	Claire Lee	East Harlem Tutorial Program: Exposing underserved groups (minorities such as Hispanics, African-Americans) to poetry through poetry workshops held in partnership with the EHTP.

TBD	Chicago, IL	Natalie Richardson	Louder than a Bomb. Collaborate across neighborhoods by forming a team of poets from across the city to target schools w/o spoken word program. The team will send proposals to each school for a Spoken Word workshop and committee showcase.
26-27 April	Birmingham, AL	Luisa Banchoff	Red Mountain Writing Project: Writers of Social Justice How One Pen Changes the World-Conference. Reading & workshop with high school students. Additional workshop/reading at the Holocaust Museum in Washington, DC
*5 May	Montezuma, NM	Lylla Younes	Poet Joy Harjo, advisor. Poetry conference—readings, performances and workshop drawing on her school peers who come from many different countries. Audience and other participants will be from local schools and the Native American School in Santa Fe.

*Dates are tentative and subject to change