Introduction

This report marks the third release of library statistics data from the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS). It contains data on state library agencies in the 50 states and the District of Columbia for state fiscal year (FY) 2008. The data were collected through the State Library Agencies (StLA) Survey, the product of a cooperative effort between the Chief Officers of State Library Agencies (COSLA), IMLS and the U.S. Census Bureau. This cooperative effort makes possible the 100 percent unit response rate achieved for this survey. The frame or source of the list of respondents for this survey is based on the list that COSLA maintains of state library agencies. The FY 2008 survey is the 15th in the StLA series.

Background

A state library agency is the official agency of a state that is charged by state law with the extension and development of public library services throughout the state and that has adequate authority under state law to administer state plans in accordance with the provisions of the Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA) (P.L. 104–208). Beyond these two roles, state library agencies vary greatly. They are located in various departments of state government and report to different authorities. They are involved in various ways in the development and operation of electronic information networks. They provide different types of services to different types of libraries. They provide important reference and information services to state governments and administer the state libraries and special operations such as state archives, libraries for the blind and physically handicapped, and the State Center for the Book.¹ The state library agency may function as the state's public library at large, providing library services to the general public. This report provides information on the range of roles played by state library agencies and the various combinations of fiscal, human, and informational resources invested in such work. Some state libraries perform allied operations—that is, services not ordinarily considered a state library agency function. These allied operations may include maintaining state archives, managing state records, conducting legislative research for the state, or operating a museum or art gallery.

The state library agencies of the District of Columbia, Hawaii, and Maryland are different from the other state libraries in a variety of ways. They are administrative offices without a separate state library collection. In the District of Columbia, which is treated as a state for reporting purposes, the Martin Luther King Memorial Library, the central library of the District of Columbia Public Library, functions as a resource center for the district government. In Hawaii, the state library is located in the Hawaii State Public Library System. State law designates Enoch Pratt Free Library's central library as the Maryland State Library Resource Center. These collections are reported on the IMLS Public Libraries Survey (PLS) and thus are not reported on the StLA Survey, to avoid duplication.

The state library agencies of the District of Columbia, Hawaii, and Maryland administer LSTA funds and report LSTA revenues and expenditures in this report. To eliminate duplicative reporting, state funds for aid to libraries for the District of Columbia and Hawaii state library agencies are reported on the PLS, rather than on the StLA Survey, because of the unique situation of these two state agencies.

Purpose of Survey

The purpose of the StLA Survey is to provide state and federal policymakers, researchers, and other interested users with descriptive information about state library agencies. The data collected are useful to (1) chief officers of state library agencies; (2) policymakers in the executive and legislative branches of federal and state governments; (3) government and library administrators at the federal, state, and local levels; (4) the American Library Association and its members or customers; (5) library and public policy researchers; and (6) the public, journalists, and others. Decision makers use these data to obtain information about services and fiscal practices.

Organization of This Report

This report presents selected findings and background information about the survey. The body of this report is composed of tables providing an overview of state library agencies during the 2008 fiscal year. The tables present data on seven main topics.

- Collections—describes state library holdings of materials in various formats.
- Service Transactions—characterizes library use, such as circulation and reference transactions.
- Internet Access and Electronic Services—describes the efforts of agencies to facilitate Internet access among libraries in their states, as well as the availability of statewide electronic services, information and networks.
- Staffing and Public Service Hours—staffing levels and the functions performed by employees of state library agencies, as well as the number of public service hours during a typical week.
- Expenditures—describes how state library funds are expended.
- Revenue—identifies various sources of revenue.
- Services to Libraries and Cooperatives—identifies activities and programs that support public, academic, school, special libraries, and library cooperatives.

Five appendixes supply supporting information. Appendix A provides technical information about the survey, data processing, and response rates. A list of the state library agencies participating in the Universal Service (e-rate discount) Program can be found in Appendix B. State library agencies listed in Appendix C have received federal income other than LSTA state library allocations. Appendix D contains the survey instrument and instructions, including definitions of terms used in the survey and this report. Supplemental tables appear in Appendix E.

Congressional Authorization

Two separate laws cover the protection of the confidentiality of individually identifiable information collected by the Institute of Museum and Library Services - the Privacy Act of 1974 and the E-Government Act of 2002. The Guidelines for Ensuring and Maximizing the Quality, Objectivity, Utility, and Integrity of Information Disseminated by the Institute of Museum and Library Services are prepared under the Treasury and General Government Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2001, Section 515(b).

IMLS will fulfill the congressional mandate in the Museum and Library Services Act of 2003 as stated in SEC. 210. Analysis of Impact of Museum and Library Services:

‘From amounts described in sections 214(c) and 275(b), the Director shall carry out and publish analyses of the impact of...library services. Such analyses—
(1) shall be conducted in ongoing consultation with—
(A) State library administrative agencies;
(B) State, regional, and national library...organizations; and
(C) other relevant agencies and organizations;
(2) shall identify national needs for, and trends of...library services provided with funds made available under subtitles B and C...’

IMLS library survey activities will be designed to address high-priority library data needs; provide consistent, reliable, complete, and accurate indicators of the status and trends of state and public libraries; and report timely, useful, and high-quality data to the U.S. Congress, the states, other education policymakers, practitioners, data users, and the general public.

Findings

These findings give an overview of the revenues, expenditures and services provided by state library agencies (StLAs) during fiscal year (FY) 2008. State library agencies are official agencies charged by state law with the extension and development of library services throughout the state; for more detailed information on StLAs, please see the Introduction section of this report. The 2008 fiscal year includes parts of 2007 and 2008; for the vast majority of states (46), the 2008 fiscal year started on 7/1/2007 and ended on 6/30/2008. Because of the time period this survey spans, it does not reflect the full budgetary impact of the current economic downturn.

An important function that all StLAs fulfill is the coordination and distribution of federal funds distributed by IMLS. IMLS allots the funds to the states, the District of Columbia and 5 territories² using a population-based formula. These LSTA funds may be spent directly or through sub grants and cooperative agreements that operate at or below the state level. The StLAs also provide data to IMLS via the annual State Library Agency Survey. The survey is a unique federal-state partnership. While there are many federal state cooperative programs, few collect and report on agency budgets and operations on an annual basis. This annual report is an important example of government transparency and intergovernmental cooperation which contributes to a national discussion regarding the state of library services.

An important qualification is needed for readers to place the data from this report in context. The figures in the following sections aggregate data from across the 50 states and the District of Columbia to derive a single set of national estimates regarding revenues, expenditures and state library services.³ The authors chose to aggregate statewide figures up to the national level because they believe it is the most efficient way to characterize overall trends and quantify the nation’s investment in library services through state library agencies. While this type of aggregation has a number of advantages, it can mask the variation that exists between state library agencies. For example, state library agencies in Pennsylvania and New York had revenues in excess of $100 million (Figure 1) in fiscal year 2008; at the same time, 32 states had revenues of less than $20 million, 42 states had revenues under $40 million and no other state library agency’s budget exceeded $70 million. These budgetary differences are due to differences between states in population size as well as varying scopes of responsibility among state library agencies, among other factors. National trends in funding and services may differ from those of individual states, so the findings presented here should not be generalized and applied at the state level. Tables 1 through 31 in the “Tables” section of this report provide detailed service, revenue and expenditure data for each of the responding states and the District of Columbia in fiscal year 2008.

The StLA Role in Coordinating and Delivering Library Services and Support

StLA Services to the Public

State library agencies play important roles in promoting basic literacy in the communities they serve. From 1999 to 2008⁴, more than two thirds of state library agencies funded literacy programs in public libraries (Figure 2). The high point during the study period was 2001, when 47 state library agencies funded such programs. During 2002-2007, the number of states funding such programs fluctuated between 39 and 40, before dropping slightly to 38 in 2008. The overwhelming majority of states have also funded summer reading programs in public libraries from 1999-2008. In the three most recent data years (2006-2008), all but one state library agency provided financial support to summer reading programs.

State library agencies also fund library services for hard to reach populations. These outreach efforts include services to persons with physical or learning disabilities, assistive technologies and devices, prison and jail services, services to nursing homes and other institutions, talking books, outreach services, bookmobiles, computer vans, and services for migrant workers and non-English speakers. The high point for such expenditures during the study period came in 2002-2004, when $49.6-$57.0 million⁵ in LSTA funds were spent serving this population (Figure 3). LSTA expenditures for such services have dropped off considerably since then, ranging from $25.7-$31.6 million between 2005 and 2008. In fact, funding levels for such programs in recent years are low even relative to 1999-2001, when $37.2-$39.4 million in LSTA funds were spent serving the hard to reach.

A word of caution is appropriate here; the decrease in expenditures observed in Figure 3 may not reflect a true decline in the level of LSTA-funded services for the hard to reach. There is some overlap between the “Persons having difficulty using libraries” category and the “Library technology, connectivity and services” category in the survey questionnaire (these categories appear in Table 31 of this report). Given changes in assistive technologies over the same period it is possible that respondents are now reporting expenditures for high-tech assistive technologies as “library technology/connectivity services” rather than expenditures for “people having difficulty using libraries”. This type of reporting shift would look like a drop in expenditures when the data are examined over time, but it may not reflect any change in the level of effort in serving hard to reach populations. IMLS will look into this issue in more detail for future StLA data collections to ensure that the data being collected reflect the true level of services being provided.

Additionally, the most precipitous decline in funding occurred between 2004 and 2005, a time when the “Persons having difficulty using libraries” survey item changed. The 4 LSTA spending categories in 2004 were electronic networking/electronic access, services to persons having difficulty using a library, services to children in poverty and LSTA administration. In 2005, the 4 categories were library technology, connectivity and services, services to persons having difficulty using libraries, services for lifelong learning, and LSTA administration. The “electronic networking/electronic access” category expanded and was now identified as “library technology, connectivity and services”. Again, given that many assistive technologies can also qualify as “library technology, connectivity and services”, it is quite possible that the change in the survey question caused some funds that were previously categorized as expenditures for the hard to serve to be classified under the expanded library technology category. The “services to children in poverty” category was completely dropped and replaced with “services for lifelong learning”, a change that also likely caused some re-categorization of funds. It is also important to remember that the data in Figure 3 only includes LSTA funding. State library agencies may be electing to finance services for the hard to reach using state or other funding sources. We cannot definitively say this because the survey instrument currently doesn't allow one to quantify expenditures for the hard to serve from non-federal sources, but it is a possibility.

StLA Services to Libraries and State Governments

In 2008, state library agencies gave $809 million in financial aid to public libraries⁶ (Figure 4); this number was nearly identical to the amount awarded in 1999 ($810 million), but there was much fluctuation in between these two points. By 2000, the figure had risen to $846 million, before reaching a high of $977 million in 2001. By 2004, the figure had fallen to $791 million; it remained in this range until 2007, when it rose to $834 million.

As part of their role as coordinator of library services in their states, StLAs in many states purchase database licenses for public libraries, (public) school library media centers⁷, and library cooperatives in their respective states.⁸ Providing this service results in savings in the aggregate, as the bargaining power of the state and the entities that it represents leads to lower prices for access to these databases than what would have been paid had individual libraries and administrative entities negotiated the agreements themselves. In 2008, 50 state library agencies bought statewide database licenses for their public libraries,⁹ 42 state library agencies purchased statewide database licenses for school library media centers (elementary and secondary school libraries) and 35 purchased statewide database licenses for library cooperatives (Figure 5). Nationwide, expenditures on statewide database licensing have grown tremendously over the past 10 years. Spending on such licenses more than doubled (in constant 2008 dollars) during the study period, going from $31.8 million in 1999 to $65.9 million in 2008 (Figure 6). Most of this change occurred between 1999 and 2001, when expenditures increased from $31.8 million to $59.7 million, an increase of 88 percent.

Although state funds still account for the majority of statewide database licensing expenditures, federal and other sources of revenue have grown in importance in the last decade (Figure 7). In 1999, $21.3 million of the $31.7 million in statewide database licensing expenditures came from state sources (67 percent), with 32.8 percent ($10.4 million) coming from federal sources and nearly none of the funds ($65,000, 0.2 percent) coming from other sources. By 2008, this picture had changed somewhat. Total expenditures had more than doubled reaching $65.8 million. State sources accounted for the largest absolute increase in funding over the time period ($16.7 million) and the majority of funding still came from the states, but now the $38.0 million in state funds comprised 57.7 percent of total funding, a decrease of 9 percentage points from the 1999 level. Most of this shift in funding was accounted for by increases from other (non-state, non-federal) sources. In 1999, less than $100,000 in statewide database licensing funding came from other sources, but by 2008, they accounted for $4.0 million; these other sources now comprised 6 percent of funding, whereas before they were nearly insignificant. During the same time frame, the federal government more than doubled its contributions, pushing funding to $23.8 million. Federal funds comprised 36.2 percent of statewide database licensing funds by 2008, up from 32.8 percent in 1999.

State library agencies also facilitate access to the internet for public libraries. The majority of states do this in a direct manner; in 2008, 29 state library agencies provided public libraries with direct funding for Internet access, while 32 states provided libraries with equipment for internet access (Figure 8). States are moving away from furnishing funds for direct internet access, however; in 1999, 41 state library agencies performed this function, and in 2008, only 29 did. In addition to funding access to the internet and providing equipment that enables it, state library agencies also make more online content available to library patrons at the local level and affect the structure through which patrons access internet content. All state library agencies provided access to directories, databases, or online catalogs via the Internet¹⁰ in 2008. All 51 StLAs also managed a web site, file server, bulletin board(s), or electronic mailing list(s)¹¹ in 2008. In fact, all states have performed these last two functions since 2002.

State library agencies also facilitate maintenance of and access to public library collections, through digitization efforts and preservation/conservation services. In 2008, 33 StLAs funded or facilitated digitization or digital programs or services to public libraries or library cooperatives (Figure 9). Such measures include any program or activity that provides for the digitization of documents, publications or sets of records or artifacts to be made available for public use. 18 StLAs provided collection preservation or conservation services¹² to public libraries, either directly or by contract in 2008.

State library agencies also fund continuing education events for library staff in public libraries, academic libraries, school library media centers, special libraries¹³, and library cooperatives. The number of continuing education events funded by state library agencies increased from just over 3,900 in 1999 to over 7,100 in 2008, an increase of 82 percent (Figure 10). Attendance at continuing education events rose from just under 96,000 in 1999 to a high of over 134,000 in 2007, before decreasing to just over 114,000 in 2008 (Figure 11). Despite the considerable drop-off from 2007 to 2008, attendance at StLA-funded continuing education events still increased by 19 percent during the study period.

¹³ Special libraries are located in business firms, professional associations, government agencies, or other organized groups. A special library may be maintained by a parent organization to serve a specialized clientele; or an independent library may provide materials or services, or both, to the public, a segment of the public, or other libraries.

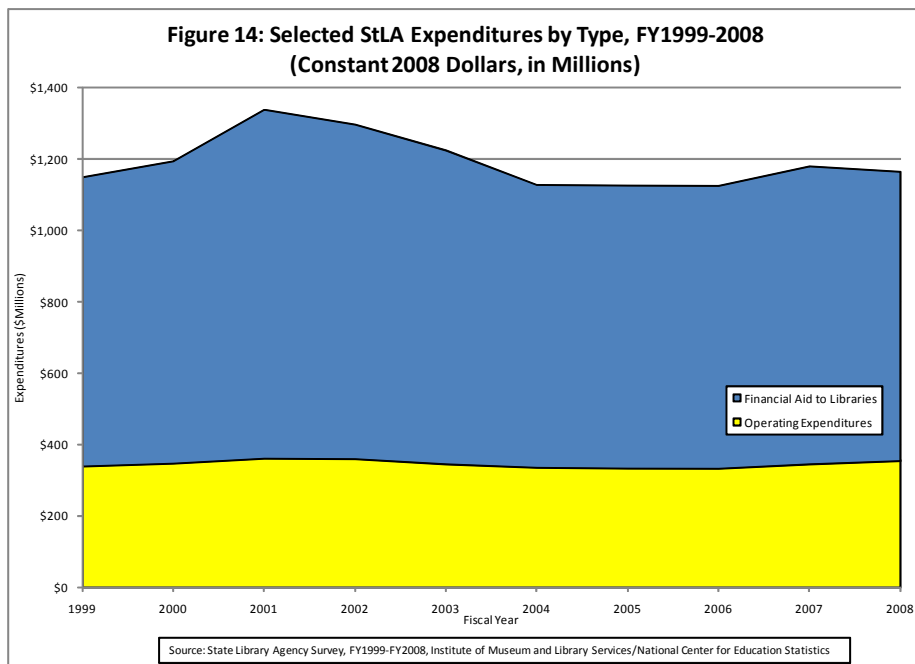

State library agencies directly provide a diverse range of services to state governments (Figure 12). In 12 states (Alaska, Arizona, California, Connecticut, Florida, Kansas, Kentucky, Nevada, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia), the state library agency performed at least one of the following functions:

- Primary state legislative research organization (4 states)
- State archives (10 states)
- State records management services (10 states)
- State history museum/art gallery (3 states)

FY 2008 StLA Survey Highlights

StLAs' revenue was basically the same at the beginning of the study period as it was at the end—$1.19 billion in 1999, and just under $1.20 billion in 2008 (Figure 13). Revenues rose dramatically immediately after 1999, reaching the period's high point of $1.40 billion in 2001. Between 2001 and 2004, StLA revenues fell to $1.18 billion, a decrease of 15.7 percent. Since 2004, StLA revenues have more or less fluctuated between $1.15 and $1.20 billion dollars.

How do fluctuations in the revenues of state library agencies affect public libraries and their patrons? The stacked area graph in Figure 14 indicates that StLAs are less able to provide financial aid to public libraries in their respective states when revenues take a downturn. Operating expenditures are flat over the 10 year study period, not increasing markedly when revenues increase and not decreasing noticeably when revenues decrease. In other words, because the real cost of operating state library agencies has not changed over time (at least in the aggregate), the effect of changes in resources are felt most strongly by local libraries and their patrons, because StLAs are less able to distribute financial aid at the local level.

As Figure 15 shows, the vast majority of the revenues used to run state library agencies come from the states themselves. In 2008, the most recent data year, 83.9 percent of StLA revenues came from states, with 13.4 percent coming from the federal government¹⁴ and 2.8 percent coming from other sources. The lowest share of state contributions to StLA revenue came during 2004, when 81.2 percent of revenues came from the states; the highest came during 2001, when the corresponding percentage was 85.5 percent. The highest year of proportional federal contributions was during 2004, when 15.3 percent of StLA revenues came from federal sources. The lowest was during 2001, when federal contributions accounted for 12.7 percent of StLA revenues. All major fluctuations in the overall amount of revenue that state library agencies received during the study period were almost entirely due to changes in the contribution levels of the states. For example, real StLA revenue increased by $211 million between 1999 and 2001, with 96 percent of this change being accounted for by increases in state revenues, which rose by $202 million during this time. Additionally, when StLA revenues decreased by $220 million between 2001 and 2004, combined revenues from federal and other sources actually rose by $19.2 million, but the increase from these two sources was more than offset by state contribution levels, which decreased by $239 million during this period.

¹⁴ Federal income includes state program income under the LSTA (P.L. 104–208), income from Title II of the Library Services and Construction Act (LSCA) (P.L. 101–254), and other federal income. Note: LSCA was superseded by LSTA, but LSCA Title II funds are still active.

What Does the Future Hold?

The current economic challenges have led to significant budget shortfalls in states across the country. Many state governments have responded to the recession by downsizing their workforces or curtailing services. However, the effects of the recent economic downturn may be felt even more acutely among state library agencies as their budgets have seen little or no real dollar increase over the last ten years.

Despite the lack of real growth in their budgets, state library agencies continue to plan for and support local libraries as they meet the needs of patrons, at a time when the character of library services are being fundamentally redefined. Many more information resources are expected by the 21st century patron, whether they are in a school, public library, college or university. While current information technologies provide exciting new opportunities to extend library services to many more individuals and organizations across the state, these technologies require a significant amount of coordination and investment. State library agencies appear to be answering this call. Despite flat budgets, real dollar expenditures in statewide database licensing have more than doubled in the past 10 years, reaching a total of $65.8 million in 2008. Investments at the state level provide certain benefits that could not be realized by local libraries acting alone. For example, several state library agencies leverage the purchasing power of the state to secure and deliver a wide range of licensed databases and other information resources that would be too costly and inefficient to secure the local level. This is just one example of the central role StLAs can play in the delivery of library services in their home states.

In the years to come, state library agencies will be challenged to continue supporting state of the art library and information services with fewer human and financial resources. These resource reductions could play a significant role in the quality and quantity of state library agency services. IMLS will continue to document the trends highlighted in this report in order to gain a better understanding of how changes at the state level affect state library agencies' operations and ultimately, the quality of library services to the public.

NOTE: State library agencies were asked to report all allied operations, regardless of whether the allied operations were funded from the agency's budget. An allied operation is an office, bureau, division, center, or other organizational unit or service within a state library agency with staff, mission, and resources to provide service not ordinarily considered a state library agency function. It is characterized by having: (a) a specific mission, which may be a part of the state library agency's overall mission statement; (b) staff assigned for that mission; that staff usually includes professionals other than librarians (such as historians, archivists, curators, etc.) appropriate to its mission; (c) a high-level manager or supervisor who reports to the state library agency's chief officer or to a deputy designated by the chief officer; and (d) financial resources clearly identified and managed for the operation.

D Directly. Services provided directly by the state library agency (StLA) are those provided without any intermediary by the StLA to libraries or library cooperatives.

C Contract. Services provided by contract by the StLA are those provided by a third party or intermediary under legal contract to the StLA.

N Not provided. The state library agency does not provide this service.

¹LSTA—Library Services and Technology Act (P.L. 104-208).

²OCLC Group Access Capability (GAC)—Use of the Online Computer Library Center (OCLC) system, originally the Ohio College Library Center, by a group of libraries for resource sharing and interlibrary lending (ILL). Group Access Capability (GAC) related activities may include coordinating group profiling, establishing group policies, coordinating ILL protocols within the group, and referring requests outside of a GAC group.

³Union list development—A union list is a list of titles of works, usually periodicals, and their locations in physically separate library collections.

⁴This program was established by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) under the Telecommunications Act of 1996 (P.L. 104-104). State library agencies review and approve technology plans for libraries or library cooperatives applying for E-rate discounts under this program.

D Directly. Services provided directly by the state library agency (StLA) are those provided without any intermediary by the StLA to libraries or library cooperatives.

C Contract. Services provided by contract by the StLA are those provided by a third party or intermediary under legal contract to the StLA.

N Not provided. The state library agency does not provide this service.

¹LSTA—Library Services and Technology Act (P.L. 104-208).

²OCLC Group Access Capability (GAC)—Use of the Online Computer Library Center (OCLC) system, originally the Ohio College Library Center, by a group of libraries for resource sharing and interlibrary lending (ILL). Group Access Capability (GAC) related activities may include coordinating group profiling, establishing group policies, coordinating ILL protocols within the group, and referring requests outside of a GAC group.

³Union list development—A union list is a list of titles of works, usually periodicals, and their locations in physically separate library collections.

NOTE: Summer reading program support is not included as a service in this table, as academic libraries do not provide such programs as defined by the state library and public library community. Universal service (E-rate discount) program review was also omitted as academic libraries are ineligible for federal funds under this program unless their budgets are independent of their parent institution's budget, and no state library agency reported this service.

D Directly. Services provided directly by the state library agency (StLA) are those provided without any intermediary by the StLA to libraries or library cooperatives.

C Contract. Services provided by contract by the StLA are those provided by a third party or intermediary under legal contract to the StLA.

N Not provided. The state library agency does not provide this service.

¹LSTA—Library Services and Technology Act (P.L. 104-208).

²OCLC Group Access Capability (GAC)—Use of the Online Computer Library Center (OCLC) system, originally the Ohio College Library Center, by a group of libraries for resource sharing and interlibrary lending (ILL). Group Access Capability (GAC) related activities may include coordinating group profiling, establishing group policies, coordinating ILL protocols within the group, and referring requests outside of a GAC

³Union list development—A union list is a list of titles of works, usually periodicals, and their locations in physically separate library collections.

⁴This program was established by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) under the Telecommunications Act of 1996 (P.L. 104-104). State library agencies review and approve technology plans for libraries or library cooperatives applying for E-rate discounts under this program.

NOTE: Special Library—A library in a state institution, business firm, professional association, government agency, or other organized group; a library that is maintained by a parent organization to serve a specialized clientele; or an independent library that may provide materials or services, or both, to the public, a segment of the public, or to other libraries. Scope of collections and services are limited to the subject interests of the host or parent institution.

¹Two of these three "Other outlets" serve other libraries, not individuals.

²The state library agencies (StLAs) are administrative offices and do not function as state libraries. However, outlets that are staffed and administered by the StLA, such as the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped (LBPH), or outlets serving residents of state institutions, are reported on the StLA Survey.

³The state library agency is an administrative office only. It does not function as a state library and has no service outlets.

NOTE: Service outlets include: (a) Main or central outlet—A single unit library or the unit where the principal collections are located and handled. Does not include a state library agency administrative center which is separate from the principal collections and is not open to users; (b) Other outlets (excluding bookmobiles)—Units that have all of the following: (1) separate quarters, (2) a permanent basic collection of books and/or other materials, (3) a permanent paid staff, and (4) a regular schedule of hours open to users; and (c) Bookmobiles —Trucks or vans specially equipped to carry books and other library materials. They serve as traveling branch libraries. The number of vehicles in use are counted, rather than the number of stops each vehicle makes. The number of user group outlets may not sum to total outlets because an outlet may serve more than one user group.

StLA staff administer the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped (LBPH) in Maryland and the District of Columbia, but the LBPH collections are owned by the Library of Congress. The main library of the Hawaii State Public Library System is called the Hawaii State Library; its data are reported on the Public Libraries Survey conducted by IMLS. In Maryland, Enoch Pratt Central, the central library of the Enoch Pratt Free Library, is designated by state law as the State Library Resource Center. In the District of Columbia, the Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Library, the central library of the District of Columbia Public Library, functions as a resource center for the municipal government. Their data are reported on the IMLS Public Libraries Survey.

¹This is the total number of persons per year entering StLA outlets, including persons attending activities, meetings, and those persons requiring no staff services.

²These are transactions that involve lending an item from the state library collection or borrowed from another library for use generally, although not always, outside the library. Includes materials charged manually or electronically. Includes renewals. Excludes items checked out to another library.

³A reference transaction is an information contact which involves the knowledge, use, recommendations, interpretation or instruction in the use of one or more information sources by a member of the StLA staff. Includes information and referral service.

⁴Nonrespondent to library visits (the data are imputed).

⁵Nonrespondent to interlibrary loan/document delivery received from other libraries/document delivery services (the data are imputed).

⁶State library agency serves only state government employees.

⁷This includes circulation from state library agency outlets that serve state government employees and residents of state correctional institutions or other state institutions.

⁸Nonrespondent to circulation (the data are imputed).

¹This includes staff not reported under administration, library development, or library services, such as staff in allied operations.

NOTE: Staff are reported based on the state library agency's organization chart and area of specialization and include staff on the payroll as of October 1, 2008, and unfilled but budgeted positions. Detail may not sum to totals because of rounding.

Appendix A: Technical Notes

This report contains data on state library agencies (StLAs) in the 50 states and the District of Columbia for state fiscal year (FY) 2008. The data were collected through the State Library Agencies (StLA) Survey, sponsored by the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS). The Census Bureau is the data collection agent for IMLS. The reporting unit for the survey is the StLA.

History of the Survey

The StLA Survey is the product of a cooperative effort between the Institute of Museum and Library Services, Chief Officers of State Library Agencies (COSLA), and the Census Bureau. The effort was based on the recommendations of COSLA in April 1992 and continuing discussions throughout 1992 that culminated in the appointment of the StLA Survey Steering Committee in November 1992. The survey was developed under NCES contract by the director of the Library Research Service, Colorado Department of Education, in consultation with the StLA Survey Steering Committee. The StLA Survey replaced the annual COSLA Financial Survey of State Library Agencies.

The StLA Survey has been conducted annually starting with the FY 1994 data collection. The survey has had 100 percent participation by the StLAs in the 50 states and the District of Columbia (51 total) since its inception.

On October 1, 2007 the survey was transferred from NCES to IMLS. The FY 2006 survey was collected by NCES and released by IMLS. The FY 2007 Survey was the first StLA data collection and second release by IMLS.

Survey Instrument

The FY 1994–98 surveys were conducted using DOS-based survey software. The FY 1999 survey was redesigned to collect data over the Internet via a Web-based reporting system. The current Web survey application includes a user guide and tutorial explaining its operation, the survey instrument (data entry form and instructions), and an edit check tool. The Web survey was designed to reduce response burden, to improve the timeliness and quality of the data, and to require minimal or no edit follow-up for data problems.

The FY 2008 survey collected data on 278 items¹⁵, including StLA identification, governance, allied operations, public service hours, service outlets, collections, library service transactions, library development transactions, services to other libraries in the state, staff, revenue, expenditures, and electronic services and information. The items and definitions are provided in the survey instrument in appendix D.

Reporting Period. The FY 2008 StLA Survey requested data for state FY 2008, except for items in Part B (Governance) and Part I (Staff), which requested data as of October 1, 2008. The fiscal year of most states ran from July 1, 2007, to June 30, 2008. Exceptions included New York (April 1, 2007, to March 31, 2008); Texas (September 1, 2007, to August 31, 2008); and Alabama, the District of Columbia, and Michigan (October 1, 2007, to September 30, 2008).

Survey Universe

The survey universe comprises the StLAs in the 50 states and the District of Columbia (51 total).

Survey Response Rate

Unit Response. The FY 2008 StLA Survey achieved a 100 percent unit response rate. Respondents to the survey are defined as StLAs that reported at least three of the five following items: total staff, total revenue, total expenditures, book and serial volumes, and total circulation.

¹⁵All subtotals and totals on the survey were automatically generated from the detail.

Item Response. Item response rates were calculated by dividing the total number of StLAs reporting a specific item by the total number of StLAs in the survey universe (51). Two items (see table A-1) had response rates below 100 percent:

Table A-1. Items with response rates below 100 percent, Fiscal year 2008

Item number	Item	Response rate

Data Collection and Processing

The StLA Survey was released on the Web to StLAs for data entry on October 15, 2008. The survey had a due date of February 17, 2008. The Census Bureau was the data processing agent for the survey through an interagency agreement with IMLS. The Census Bureau administered the Web application, providing technical support to respondents, performing edit and nonresponse follow-up, and producing the data files and tabulations.

To reduce response burden, the survey was transmitted with pre-entered prior-year data for items for which the data are not expected to change annually—all or some of Parts A through F and M, or about 70 percent of the survey items. Respondents were asked to review the pre-entered data and update any information that had changed from the previous year. All other data cells were left blank to be filled in, not updated. The Web application required a response of -1 to a numeric item if the respondent could not provide the data. A response was also required to all alphanumeric items, except items that could legitimately be left blank because of skip patterns. The respondent could not submit data unless these conditions were met. A zero (0) is a reported response and indicates that the StLA had none of the item. Missing data were imputed. See the section below on "Imputation" for a discussion of the imputation methodology.

An edit check tool alerted the respondent to questionable data via interactive "edit check warnings" during the data entry process and through edit check reports that could be viewed on screen or printed. The edit check program enabled the respondent to submit an edited data file to IMLS, which usually required little or no follow-up for data problems. The edit check tool includes five types of edits:

1. Relational edit checks. This is a data consistency check between related data elements. For example, an edit message is generated if the StLA is designated as a federal depository library but does not indicate the type of federal depository library.
2. Out-of-range edit checks. This is a comparison of data reported for an item to the "acceptable range" of numeric values. For example, an edit message is generated if total attendance at events is greater than 6,000.
3. Blank/zero/invalid edit checks. This is a check of reported data against acceptable values. For example, an edit message is generated if book/serial volumes is 0 or blank.
4. Current year/prior year comparisons. Current year data must fall within "acceptable range" for the prior reporting period. For example, an edit message is generated if total staff is not 75% to 125% of last year.
5. Ratios. The ratio of one item to another must not exceed a limit, such as annual circulation transactions per annual library visits are less than 0.5.

After responses were received the Census Bureau reviewed the data and contacted states with questionable data to request verification or correction of the data. Data records were then aggregated into preliminary draft tables which were reviewed by IMLS and the Census Bureau for data quality issues. Based on this review, states with questionable data were contacted once again to request verification or correction of the data before the final file was created.

The per capita data in tables 20-22, 29C, 29F and E7-E10 are based on state population estimates as of July 1, 2008, provided by the Census Bureau. The state population estimates are included on the data file.

Imputation

The growth rule was the only method of imputation used for the FY 2008 data. If the state does not report a value for FY 2008 and the value for FY 2007 is greater than zero, the growth rate from FY 2007 to FY 2008 is calculated for all states that have reported data in both years. The median of those growth rates is also calculated. The imputed value for FY 2008 is the median growth rate from the respondents multiplied by the nonrespondent's FY 2007 data. Although imputed prior-year data are excluded from the growth rate calculations, the growth rule can be applied to prior-year data that have been imputed. The method looks at the values for one prior year of data. States that cannot report a particular item tend to have ongoing problems reporting that item, so it is not useful to look back at FY 2004 data or earlier.

Nonsampling Errors

Since all units in the universe are surveyed, the data are not subject to sampling error, but they are subject to nonsampling errors, such as errors in response, nonresponse errors, or processing errors.

Every effort is made to mitigate such errors. The editing efforts described above are designed to decrease the number of errors due to inaccurate response or due to processing problems. Imputation lessens the effect of nonresponse. Although such efforts are made, some nonsampling error likely remains in the data.

Using the Data to Make Comparisons

Missing data were imputed beginning with the FY 1999 StLA Survey. Therefore, users should take into consideration that items that include imputations are not strictly comparable to data prior to FY 1999, which include reported data only.

State comparisons should be made with caution, because states vary in their fiscal year reporting periods, as previously indicated, and may vary in their interpretation of the survey definitions. The District of Columbia is included in the survey. Caution should be used in comparing city data with state data.

Part C. Allied Operations, State Resource or Reference-Information Service Center, and State Center for the Book

2. Enter Yes or No for each item to indicate whether the StLA is combined with any of the allied operations listed below. Do not report a Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, a State Center for the Book, or a contract with another library or other entity to provide a service on behalf of the StLA.

Note: An allied operation is an office, bureau, division, center, or other organizational unit or service within an StLA with staff, mission, and resources to provide service not ordinarily considered a state library agency function. It is characterized by having:

(a) a specific mission, which may be a part of the StLA's overall mission statement;

(b) staff assigned for that mission; that staff usually includes professionals other than librarians (such as historians, archivists, curators, etc.) appropriate to its mission;

(c) a high-level manager or supervisor who reports to the StLA chief officer or to a deputy designated by the chief officer;

(d) financial resources clearly identified and managed for the operation.

Note: Do not report the following as allied operations: a Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, a State Center for the Book, a law library, or a contract with another library or other entity to provide a service on behalf of the StLA.

040 State archives. This operation is responsible for preserving and servicing noncurrent official records of State organizations and institutions that are of continuing value (1) to the legal and administrative functioning of State government, (2) for the verification and protection of the rights of individuals, and (3) for historical and other research. It usually includes records of antecedent colonial and territorial governments. Materials are stored, arranged, and described so that needed records can be found readily.

041 Primary State legislative research organization. This operation conducts research and gathers, digests, and analyzes information in a close and confidential relationship with members of the State legislature and their staff.

Note: As an allied service, the organization is distinguished from specialized reference service which a state library agency may provide to government and other users by responding to reference questions from legislative personnel, providing information service, furnishing bibliographic and net search results, and instructing and guiding users in conducting their research. At the federal level, the parallel might be the difference between parts of the Library of Congress: (1) the Congressional Research Service, and (2) various reference services and subject divisions of the Library.

042 State history museum/art gallery. This operation collects, preserves, and displays cultural artifacts and/or works of art related to the State's political, social, economic, and cultural history.

043 State records management service. This operation manages the life cycle of the State's own records and records of local government from creation to disposition. Disposition includes the preservation of certain records as well as the disposal of nonessential records.

- 044 Other allied operation. If any other operations are allied with the StLA, enter Yes for this item.
- 045 Specify. If any other operations are allied with the StLA, enter the name of the operation in this item.
3. Enter Yes or No to indicate whether the StLA contracts with a local public library or academic library to serve as a State resource center or State reference/information service center.
- 046 State resource center or State reference/information service center. This is an operation outside the StLA, administered by a local public library or academic library, which provides library materials and information services to libraries and individuals throughout the state. It is administratively separate from the StLA but receives grant or contract funds from the StLA for providing services.
4. Enter Yes or No to indicate whether the StLA is the host institution for, or provides any funding to, a State Center for the Book.
- 047 State Center for the Book. The State Center for the Book is part of the Center for the Book program sponsored by the Library of Congress which promotes books, reading, and literacy, and is hosted or funded by the State.

Part D. Services To Libraries and Library Cooperatives

5. Indicate which of the specified services are provided directly or by contract by the StLA to different types of libraries or library cooperatives. Specify Directly, Contract, or Not Provided for each service, for each type of library and library cooperatives.

Note: A Library Cooperative may serve single-type or multi-type libraries. Services provided directly by the StLA are those provided without any intermediary by the StLA to libraries or library cooperatives. Services provided by contract by the StLA are those provided by a third party or intermediary under legal contract to the StLA.

Type of Library

Academic Library. A library forming an integral part of a college, university, or other academic institution for postsecondary education, organized and administered to meet the needs of students, faculty, and affiliated staff of the institution.

Public Library. A library that serves all residents of a given community, district, or region, and (typically) receives its financial support, in whole or part, from public funds.

School Library Media Center. A library that is an integral part of the educational program of an elementary or secondary school with materials and services that meet the curricular, information, and recreational needs of students, teachers, and administrators.

Special Library. A library in a business firm, professional association, government agency, or other organized group; a library that is maintained by a parent organization to serve a specialized clientele; or an independent library that may provide materials or services, or both, to the public, a segment of the public, or to other libraries. Scope of collections and services are limited to the subject interests of the host or parent institution. Includes libraries in State institutions.

Library Cooperative. A Library Cooperative is an organization that has its own budget and staff and provides library and information services for the mutual benefit of participating or member libraries. The organization's participants or members are primarily libraries, which are not under the organization's administrative control. The organization may also be termed a network, system, district, or consortium. A Library Cooperative may serve single-type or multi-type libraries.

Services to Libraries and Library Cooperatives

- 048 Accreditation of libraries. The StLA may endorse or approve officially libraries which meet criteria specified by the State.
- 049 Administration of LSTA grants. Includes determining compliance with eligibility criteria and performance standards, overseeing processes through which grant recipients are determined, announcing grant recipients and disbursing funds, monitoring and receiving reports from grant recipients, submitting plans and reports to the Office of Library Services within the Institute of Museum and Library Services, and other activities involved in the management of financial assistance provided by the federal government to libraries under the Library Services and Technology Act.
- 050 Administration of State aid. Includes determining compliance with eligibility criteria and performance standards, overseeing processes through which grant recipients are determined, announcing grant recipients and disbursing funds, monitoring and receiving reports from grant recipients, and other activities involved in the management of financial assistance provided by the State to libraries.
- 051 Certification of librarians. The StLA may credential library staff with the rank or title of librarian by attesting officially to their qualifications. These qualifications may include a master's degree from a graduate program accredited by the American Library Association, another level or type of educational attainment, confirmation of participation in continuing education activities, and/or residency in the State for a specified period.
- 052 Collection of library statistics. Every StLA collects statistics on public libraries and participates in the Federal-State Cooperative System (FSCS) for Public Library Data (the name of FSCS was changed in December of 2007 to the Public Library Statistics Cooperative (PLSC)). Many StLAs collect statistics on institutional and other special libraries. Some StLAs assist in the collection of academic library statistics. A few StLAs collect statistics on school library media centers. These data collections usually involve the design and administration of survey instruments as well as data entry and processing and report design and dissemination.
- 053 Consulting services. Individual or small-group contacts to help libraries to attain goals and objectives and to deal with specific needs and problems. Consultants provide guidance on problems of concern to local personnel, assistance in identifying problems not clearly recognized, and identification of opportunities for increased or improved performance to specific groups.
- 054 Continuing education programs. Includes staff development events for library personnel at all levels as well as training events for trustees and other State and local government officials who have authority over or responsibility for libraries.
- 055 Cooperative purchasing of library materials. Two or more independent libraries of any type engaging in joint activities related to purchasing materials, together with the maintenance of the necessary records of these additions. Also included are joint activities related to the identification and verification of titles, fund accounting, processing payments, and claims.
- 056 Interlibrary loan referral services. Activities involving bibliographic service centers or utilities, regional systems (federations or cooperatives), consortia, and resource centers, such as identifying libraries believed to own requested materials and/or transmitting interlibrary loan requests in accordance with established protocols or prevailing practices.
- 057 Library legislation preparation/review. Minimally, addresses the governance and financing of the StLA, public library service, and library service to blind and physically handicapped persons and residents of State institutions. It usually permits the types of public library structures, such as municipal, countywide, regional, federated, cooperative, and contractual agreements. It may also provide mandates for StLA functions, other types of libraries (e.g., academic, school), and multitype cooperation.
- 058 Library planning/evaluation/research. Activities involved in designing and assessing library programs and services and studying issues facing libraries. Examples: The Public Library Association (PLA) planning for results process for public libraries and the outcome based evaluation process.

- 059 Literacy program support. Organized efforts to assist individuals with limited language and mathematical skills in developing skills in reading, writing, and computation that enable them to function in society without assistance from others.
- 060 OCLC Group Access Capability (GAC). Use of the Online Computer Library Center (OCLC) system, originally the Ohio College Library Center, by a group of libraries for resource sharing and interlibrary lending (ILL). Group Access Capability (GAC) related activities may include coordinating group profiling, establishing group policies, coordinating ILL protocols within the group, and referring requests outside of a GAC group.
- 061 Preservation/conservation services. Specific measures undertaken for the repair, maintenance, restoration, or protection of library materials, including but not limited to binding and rebinding, materials conversion (to microform for example), deacidification, and lamination.
- 062 Reference referral services. Provision of information about or from groups or organizations. A reference referral transaction involves the provision of information about a group or organization and its activities, services or agencies, and calendar. Such a transaction typically requires the determination of the user's need and the appropriate group or organization to meet the need. Such a transaction may require directing the user to persons or organizations external to the library for an answer to a question.
- 063 Retrospective conversion of bibliographic records. Retrospective conversion involves changing bibliographic records from one format, usually cards, to machine-readable form in order to produce or make additions to an automated catalog.
- 064 State standards/guidelines. The StLA may promulgate standards or guidelines that define adequacy, equity, and/or excellence in library service. Standards or guidelines may be quantitative, qualitative, or both. Maintaining standards or following guidelines may be a requirement for receiving State aid and/or LSTA grants.
- 065 Statewide coordinated digital program or service. Activities providing for the digitization of documents, publications, or sets of records or realia to be made available for public use (for example, digitization of a series of city reports, local newspapers, or genealogical records).
- 066 Statewide public relations/library promotion campaigns. A concerted public relations program usually organized around a particular theme or issue, with specific objectives, and using a variety of techniques in concert (e.g., press releases, events, publications, exhibits).
- 067 Statewide virtual reference service. Reference service supported by chat-based Web technology that provides access for all or a significant portion of the residents of the state through libraries or remotely, typically on a 24-hours-per-day/7-days-a-week basis.

The state library agency reviews and approves technology plans for libraries or library cooperatives applying for universal service discounts (also known as E-rate discounts) under the Universal Service Program, established by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) under the Telecommunications Act of 1996.
- 071-076 (These items are reserved for future use.)

Part E. Public Service Hours, Outlets, and User Groups

6. Enter in the spaces provided the total hours open in a typical week for all StLA outlets (main or central, bookmobiles, and other outlets), regardless of whom they serve. Do not report an allied operations outlet as an StLA outlet. Example: If the StLA has a main outlet with no bookmobile or other outlets and is open for public service 40 hours in a typical week, report 40 hours. If the StLA has a main outlet, a bookmobile, and two other outlets open 40, 20, 35, and 35 hours, respectively, in a typical week, report 130 hours (40+20+35+35=130 hours per typical week).

Note: Main or central outlet, bookmobiles, and other outlets (excluding bookmobiles) are defined in the instructions to question 8. Report total hours open in a typical week for all StLA outlets, regardless of whom they serve, and regardless of whether they are open on a walk-in or referral basis. Exclude data for a local public or academic library serving as a State resource center or State reference/information service center under contract with the StLA. Do not report data for non-StLA outlets, even though the StLA may provide funding or services to such outlets.

A "typical week" is a time that is neither unusually busy nor unusually slow. Avoid holidays, vacation periods, and days when unusual events are taking place in the community or in the library. Choose a week in which the library is open its regular hours. Include seven consecutive calendar days from Sunday through Saturday or whenever the library is usually open.

- 077a Total hours/week (all StLA outlets, regardless of whom they serve). Sum of hours open during a typical week for all StLA outlets (main or central, bookmobiles, and other outlets), regardless of whom they serve. Do not report an allied operations outlet as an StLA outlet.

7. Enter in the spaces provided the total hours that the main or central StLA outlet is open in a typical week to serve the general public or state government employees, by the specified categories. Only one outlet may be designated as the main or central outlet.

Note: Main or central outlet is defined in the instructions to question 8. Report public service hours for the main or central StLA outlet, regardless of whether the outlet is open on a walk-in or referral basis. Exclude data for a local public or academic library serving as a State resource center or State reference/information service center under contract with the StLA. Exclude service hours if the outlet only serves blind and physically handicapped individuals through the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress. Also exclude service hours if the outlet only serves residents of State correctional institutions or residents of other State institutions, unless the outlet is administered and staffed by the StLA. Do not report data for a non-StLA outlet, even though the StLA may provide funding or services to such an outlet.

- 077b Total hours/week (main or central outlet). Sum of hours open during a typical week for the main or central outlet.

- 078 Monday–Friday after 5:00 p.m. (main or central outlet). Sum of hours open after 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday during a typical week for the main or central outlet.

- 079 Saturday and Sunday (main or central outlet). Sum of hours open on Saturday and Sunday during a typical week for the main or central outlet.

- 080-081 (These items are reserved for future use.)

8. Enter in the spaces provided the total number of StLA outlets, by type of outlet, regardless of whom they serve. Only one outlet may be designated as the main or central outlet. Do not report an allied operations outlet as an StLA outlet.

Note: An StLA outlet has regular hours of service in which StLA staff are present to serve its users. The staff and all service costs are paid by the StLA as part of its regular operation. A loan of books or total collections (whether permanent or short-term) to another agency, library, or school does not constitute an StLA outlet inasmuch as it is not administered and staffed by the StLA.

- 082 Main or central outlet. A single unit library or the unit where the principal collections are located and handled. Note: An StLA administrative center which is separate from the principal collections and is not open to users should not be included as an outlet. Only one outlet may be designated as the main or central outlet. When two or more outlets are considered main or central outlets, one outlet should be designated as the central outlet and the others should be designated as "other outlets (excluding bookmobiles)".
- 083 Other outlets (excluding bookmobiles). Units that have all of the following: (1) separate quarters; (2) a permanent basic collection of books and/or other materials; (3) a permanent paid staff; and (4) a regular schedule of hours open to users.
- 084 Bookmobiles. Trucks or vans specially equipped to carry books and other library materials. They serve as traveling branch libraries. Count vehicles in use, rather than the number of stops each vehicle makes.
- 085 Total outlets. Sum of items 082-084.
9. Enter in the spaces provided the number of StLA outlets that serve the following user groups, in whole or in part, by type of outlet.
- Note: Main or central outlet, bookmobiles, and other outlets (excluding bookmobiles) are defined in the instructions to question 8.
- 086 Blind and physically handicapped individuals. Outlets serving this user group may contain talking books on discs and tapes and books in Braille made available from the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress. In addition, such outlets may contain large print books for the visually handicapped and captioned films for the deaf. These outlets provide such library materials and library services to blind or physically handicapped residents who have been certified by competent authority as unable to read or to use conventional printed materials as a result of physical limitations.
- 087 Residents of State correctional institutions. Outlets serving this user group provide books, other library materials, and access to other information resources as well as other library services to residents of prisons, reformatories, and other correctional institutions operated or substantially supported by the State.
- 088 Residents of other State institutions. Outlets serving this user group provide books, other library materials, and access to other information resources as well as other library services to patients or residents of residential training schools, hospitals, nursing homes, and other general or special institutions operated or substantially supported by the State.
- 089 State government employees (executive, legislative, or judicial). Outlets serving this user group provide books, other library materials, and access to other information resources as well as other library services to employees of all branches of State government.
- 090 General public. Report all StLA outlets that serve the general public, regardless of whether they are open on a walk-in or referral basis. Outlets serving this user group function as the State-level equivalent of a local public library, providing books, other library materials, and electronic access to locally mounted and remote information resources for all State residents.

Part F. Collections

10. Enter in the spaces provided the total number of volumes or physical units in the specified formats in all StLA outlets (main or central, bookmobiles, and other outlets) that serve the general public and/or State government employees.

Note: Main or central outlet, bookmobiles, and other outlets (excluding bookmobiles) are defined in the instructions to question 8. Report collections for all StLA outlets that serve the general public, regardless of whether they are open on a walk-in or referral basis. Exclude data for a local public or academic library serving as a State resource center or State reference/information service center under contract with the StLA. Exclude collections of braille and talking books owned by the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress. Also exclude collections that are specifically intended to only serve residents of State correctional institutions or residents of other State institutions, unless such outlets are administered and staffed by the StLA.

- 091 Book and serial volumes (exclude microforms) (exclude collections of braille books owned by the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress). Books are non-periodical printed publications bound in hard or soft covers, or in loose-leaf format, of at least 49 pages, exclusive of the cover pages; or juvenile non-periodical publications of any length bound in hard or soft covers. Serials are publications issued in successive parts, usually at regular intervals, and as a rule, intended to be continued indefinitely. Serials include periodicals (magazines), newspapers, annuals reports, yearbooks, etc.) memoirs, proceedings, and transactions of societies. ³A library in a business firm, professional association, government agency, or other organized group; a library that is maintained by a parent organization to serve a specialized clientele; or an independent library that may provide materials or services, or both, to the public, a segment of the public, or to other libraries. Scope of collections and services are limited to the subject interests of the host or parent institution. Includes libraries in state institutions.
