INTRODUCTION

The following Plan reflects the entire scope of the Library Services and Technology Act Five-Year LSTA Plan for 2018 – 2022 for the Kentucky Department of Library Services and Archives (KDLA) for the portion of funds received through the Grants to States program. The Plan reflects projects and activities that will be undertaken using funding from LSTA sources and supplemented by local, State, private and charitable giving, other foundation and grant sources as appropriate.

It is recognized that LSTA Grants to States funding cannot be used for certain purposes. For example, capital projects for facilities funding and advocacy activities are not supported with LSTA funding. KDLA accomplishes a broad set of goals through the activities of the Commissioner’s Office and its two divisions: Archives and Records Management Division and Library Services Division. This plan captures the activities that will be supported through the LSTA Grants to States funding.

MISSION

The mission of KDLA is to support and promote access to library services and to ensure that documentation of government activities is created, preserved and made available for public use.

NEEDS ASSESSMENT

A variety of data sources were used to develop the needs assessment portion of the 2018 – 2022 LSTA Plan. Sources of demographic information include U.S. Census Bureau and population projections from the Kentucky State Data Center. Comparative information regarding public libraries was gleaned from public library statistics collected annually by state library administrative agencies in each of the states and then gathered and aggregated by the U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS) using the Public Library Survey (PLS).

Other sources of information used in developing the needs assessment include information from other governmental and non-profit organizations in Kentucky that serve populations with special needs as well as focus group sessions with librarians, a web survey of the library community, and interviews with Kentucky Department of Libraries and Archives administration and staff. Finally, some supplemental information was gathered during a planning session held with KDLA staff in Frankfort on April 28, 2017.

The United States Census Bureau estimated that Kentucky’s population was 4,436,974 on July 1, 2016. This places Kentucky squarely in the middle of the fifty states with a ranking of 26th. The Bluegrass State’s age cohorts mirror the U.S. on several groups. For example, the percentage of Kentucky’s population under the age of five is 6.3% compared to the national figure of 6.2%. The percentage of Kentuckians under the age of 18 was 22.9% which exactly matches the national percentage. Kentucky’s aging population is only slightly larger than the U.S. population as a whole. The Census Bureau estimates that 15.2% of Kentuckians are 65 years of age or older compared to 14.9% of the total U.S. population.

However, age cohorts do little to hint at the real differences that exist between Kentucky’s population and national norms. Kentucky’s median household income of $43,740 falls far below the national median of $53,889. A much lower percentage of Kentuckians have attained a Bachelor’s degree or higher (22.3%) compared to the national percentage (29.8%).

Kentucky’s percentage of racial and ethnic minorities is far smaller than the national norms. Blacks/African-Americans account for 8.8% of the population compared to 13.3% nationally. Asian-Americans account for only 1.4% of the total population compared to 5.6% nationally. The percentage of the population with Hispanic/Latino roots is also considerably lower in Kentucky than in other parts of the country. The Hispanic/Latino population is reported to be only 3.4% of the total in Kentucky compared to 17.6% in the United States as a whole. Kentucky’s minority populations are primarily found in the state’s urban areas.

There are significant disparities between Kentucky’s urban areas and Kentucky’s rural areas. Although Kentucky’s total population grew by 2.2% (compared to 4.7% nationally) between April 2010 and July 2016, the growth has been in the state’s urban centers. With few exceptions, the population in rural areas has declined and continues to decline. Information from the Kentucky State Data Center (KSDC) clearly illustrates two Kentucky’s; a Kentucky that is growing and a Kentucky that is declining in population. Furthermore, this same pattern reflects educational attainment and income/poverty rates,

Kentucky has a higher rate of individuals with disabilities than the nation as a whole. This is largely because disability rates tend to be higher in areas in which agriculture and mining activities are prevalent. Approximately 12.9% of Kentuckians over the age of 18 have disabilities that limit work activities. The American Foundation for the Blind estimates that 141,680 Kentuckians (or 3.2% of the state’s population) have significant visual impairments.

Kentucky’s public library funding picture generally mirrors the disparities seen in household income/poverty rates in the state. Urban and suburban areas generally fare better than rural areas. Public libraries in Eastern and Southern Kentucky generally operate on far less revenue than public libraries in Northern and Western Kentucky.

Data from the 2014 Public Library Survey\(^3\) shows that Kentucky ranked 29\(^{th}\) in total operating expenditures per capita for public libraries. However, this moderate ranking masks tremendous disparities among Kentucky’s libraries. The Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives Statistical Report of Kentucky Public Libraries: Fiscal Year 2014 - 2015\(^4\) reports library revenue per capita for Knott County in the far Southeastern portion of the state at $1.89 per capita while some other counties reported revenue per capita exceeding $80 per capita.

Overall, public library performance on standard operational measures such as circulation per capita and visits per capita fall in the middle ground among states. Public Library Service data for 2014 shows that Kentucky ranked 26\(^{th}\) among the states in circulation per capita with 6.93 and that the Bluegrass State was 22\(^{nd}\) in visits per capita at 4.39. Kentucky also ranked 22\(^{nd}\) in full-time equivalent staffing per 10,000 population with 4.96 full-time equivalent staff per 10,000 population. More than fifty of Kentucky’s public libraries operate without a single individual with a Master’s degree in library science (MLS). Dozens of other libraries have only one MLS-credentialed librarian. Low salaries in many areas result in significant turnover in staffing both at the director level and among line staff.

The responsibilities and scope of services of the Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives (KDLA) is outlined in State Statutes. They are:

171.140 General powers and duties.

1. The department shall give assistance and advice to all state institutional and public libraries, and to all counties in the state which propose to establish public libraries, as to the best means of their establishment and operation and may send any of its members to aid in organizing such libraries or assist in the improvement of those already established.

2. It may receive gifts which may be used or held for the purpose given, and may purchase and operate traveling libraries under such conditions and rules as it thinks necessary to protect the interests of the state and best increase the efficiency of its service to the public.

3. The department may issue printed material, such as lists and circulars of information, and in the publication thereof may cooperate with other state library commissions and libraries, in order to secure the more economical administration of the work for which it was formed. It may provide for library educational opportunities in various parts of the state.

4. The department shall perform such other service in behalf of public libraries as it considers for the best interests of the state.

5. The department shall maintain a strong central collection of library materials in a variety of formats and assure access to those materials and to other information resources throughout the state and nation for the purposes of providing information and reference services to state government agencies and of supplementing the resources of local libraries.
KDLA must provide, by virtue of statute, services to public libraries, to state employees, and to state institutions.

An additional statute outlines responsibilities for serving individuals with disabilities.

171.145 Authority to provide library services for qualified readers with disabilities.

For the benefit of qualified readers with disabilities of Kentucky, the Department for Libraries and Archives may make available books and other reading matter in Braille, talking books or any other medium of reading used by qualified readers with disabilities. To this end, the department is authorized to provide library services for qualified citizens with disabilities of the Commonwealth through contract, agreement or otherwise with the Library of Congress or any regional library thereof.

Summary of Needs
- There are tremendous disparities in the ability of Kentucky's local libraries to serve the public
- Many local libraries lack the funding to provide adequate access to basic informational resources
- A large number of children are at risk educationally by virtue of living in households at or below the poverty level
- A large number of Kentuckians are disabled and more than 140,000 residents of the state have visual disabilities

- KDLA has a responsibility to serve state institutions and state employees
- Staff in many Kentucky public libraries lack technological know-how required in 21st century libraries

To respond to these needs, KDLA developed the following three goals for the Library Services and Technology Act Five-Year LSTA Plan for 2018 – 2022 with a primary focus on Information Access, Institutional Capacity, and Lifelong Learning.

COORDINATION EFFORTS

KDLA intentionally works with other agencies and statewide programs to identify common purposes and opportunities prior to implementing any new programmatic initiative. KDLA is a Leader (lead others), a Supporter (support others), a Collaborator (work with others) and periodically an Innovator (lead, support, and collaborate). KDLA is committed to leveraging the federal and state investment to complement but not duplicate the efforts of other agencies in early childhood and adult education, workforce development, and other federal programs and activities that relate to library services. These programs are displayed in Appendix A; Page A-1 for a crosswalk with the IMLS Measuring Success focal areas and intents and the LSTA priorities and purposes.

EVALUATION PLAN

The Plan lists specific outcomes and outputs as part of the project description. A mixed methods approach will guide the overall evaluation process so both quantitative and qualitative data will be gathered and synthesized for maximum utility. KDLA will capture baseline data from library users at the beginning of the 2018-2022 planning period to compare with data and library user perceptions at mid-year and the end of the grant-reporting period. KDLA will conduct the five-year evaluation as directed by legislation.

Primary stakeholder involvement in the Library Services and Technology Act 2018-2022 Five-Year LSTA Plan has been achieved through a web-based survey that was available to the library community in January 2017. Input was also received through a series of six focus groups with a sample of key stakeholders identified through an email invitation. These focus groups were held in December 2017.

COMMUNICATION AND PUBLIC AVAILABILITY

The KDLA Library Services and Technology Act 2018-2022 Five-Year LSTA Plan will be posted on the KDLA Publications webpage for download. Stakeholders will be notified of Plan completion, products, and results- through press releases, email notifications and listservs. KDLA will communicate with public libraries, library users and archival supporters through current projects and KDLA newsletters: Public Library News and Notes and Friends of Kentucky Archives: For the Record. Progress toward meeting the Plan goals will be communicated through review of mid-year status and annual reports at quarterly meetings of the State Advisory Council. The Plan will be accessible in digital format with print copies available upon request.
